Lt. Col. Winston Ehrgott discussed an article in the January issue of AMERICAN MERCURY Magazine, entitled "Wake Up, Citizens." The following was heard, in part:

COL. EHROTT: "The AMERICAN MERCURY...says...that the United States government is presently under the influence of the most powerful and crafty subversive organization in history. None of our government secrets are safe. Our vital secrets are relayed daily to the Soviet Union. We invest billions of our taxpayers' earnings in research, and the results, no matter how vital to the life and death of this republic, are in the hands of the Soviets almost immediately.

"One of the major leaks is through the supposedly super-secret CIA, the Central Intelligence Agency. It was involved in the research in our satellite and also in our policy committees and their decisions. The Central Intelligence Agency has long been a source of intelligence for the Soviets. Some of its most secretive operators are placed in their key positions by the cabal of which Harry Dexter White, Henry Morganthau's assistant, was a director.

"In spite of the FBI warnings, these people were one of the reasons the United States Army was not allowed to fire its satellite 15 months ago. They are, in turn, controlled by men who hate the brilliant German scientists we rescued from the Soviet secret police and employed for the safety of America, rather than Communist Russia and Red China, in United States Army research centers.

"Now, if those charges are false, action should be taken against the AMERICAN MERCURY, but in the event that they are proven true, action should be taken against the people who were responsible for the retention of these spies in a government secret organization such as CIA."
